

Don't Break the Bank

Keeping You In Check on All Your Outings

Don't Break the Bank is an app that acts as an in between for your bank account and your plans on a night out, a weekend trip, or a vacation of any kind. This is a preventative measure taken to ensure that your personal/social spending stays within an amount set before leaving for a trip, consumption of alcohol, or on-the-fly decision making during a social event or planned getaway.

Why Trust the Piggy?

The app will link to your real bank information and will require verification from both parties.

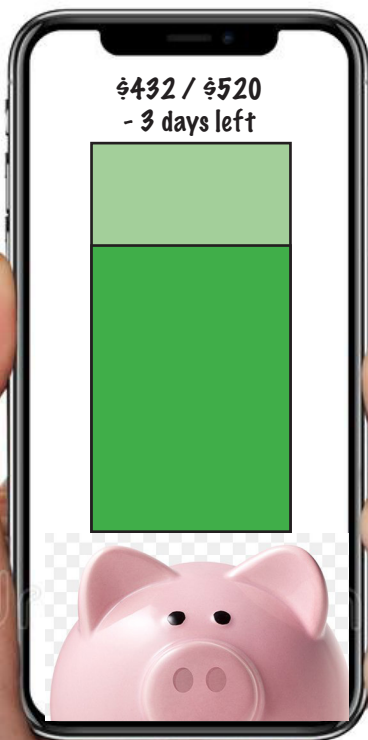

Who is This For?

This app can be used by anyone of any age.

- Parents can set this up for their children if needed
- Adults may use this for any trips/events

Feeding the Piggy

- Link your bank info upon download of the app
- Open the app, log into account
- Set the amount of money and time going to be considered
- Once the money is loaded, it is locked until the set time period has ended
- There is an emergency function, but the cost has to fall into specific categories of importance

What Will This Mean For Users?

This app will drastically alter the way that people understand budgeting for personal usage. Without this app, there may be no hesitation in spending more than you expected before leaving the house, and no consideration about how much money you may be spending. This app acts as a visual for your budget as well, and you can physically see what level your finances are at versus where they were previously and should still be before the end of your outing. This app also forces individuals to think about how much money realistically should be loaded into their account rather than using a card and not thinking twice before draining your bank account.
